Social Learning: Bringing Together Distance Learners

Social Learning: do we really understand its potential? Josefina Ares will use her deep expertise to explore the topic and the most effective teaching techniques related to it. She will discuss practical ideas on how to enhance social learning in a rapidly changing world – when even the definition of “social” is affected by technology.

The current challenge for teachers is to bring students together at a distance and Josefina will share her ideas supported by the most innovative material taken from the latest project Gateway to Success.
